Alfred Goldberg, described as "Warren Commission historian," addressing Security Studies Seminar at UCLA 24 May 68, scoffs at conspiracy theories; "It is perfectly possible, even probable, that the Commission did not discover a conspiracy because there was none!"

"Conspiracies are like elves. You have to believe in them to know they're there."